

Dr. Manali Mukherjee

Dr Manali Mukherjee is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Medicine, McMaster University with demonstrated expertise in airway biomarkers, mechanisms of lung pathology, in particular, autoimmunity. During the pandemic, she has been researching immunological underpinnings of COVID-19 disease, both acute and post-acute sequelae and is an emerging thought leader in long-COVID, an invited expert on the National task force for Post COVID condition and, Canada's Long Covid Strategic Plan, with continued ongoing outreach work (media) for the long-hauler community. Her lab is funded through local and federal sources including Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR)-Institute of Circulatory and Respiratory Health, Canadian Asthma Allergy Immunology Foundation, Canada's Covid-19 Immunity Task Force and industry partners.