

Dr. Pavlos Bobos

Dr. Pavlos Bobos, an Assistant Professor at Western University, has a wide-ranging knowledge in physiotherapy, kinesiology, and clinical epidemiology. His advanced training in evidence synthesis and clinical trials has been built up during his doctoral and postdoctoral studies. As a valuable member of the Science Table, Dr. Bobos has deepened our understanding of COVID-19 by contributing to 13 significant publications. His dedication to making research findings available to the public has strongly impacted awareness and led to improved clinical care for COVID-19. With his deep insight into PCC, Dr. Bobos stands ready to meticulously plan and conduct studies with the aim of developing new and effective PCC interventions.